

A collection of noteworthy and topical articles we found helpful this month.

- » Without legal protection, small businesses could be facing COVID-19 liability lawsuits. Taking steps to protect employees and visitors may be the best defense against claims of negligence.
Read More
- » COVID-19 won't be the last pandemic – and industry leaders argue that government support may be needed to insure the next pandemic.
Read More
- » A federal judge is allowing multiple cases to move forward as the legal battle continues over whether business interruption coverage applies to COVID-19 losses.
Read More
- » Only a small group of insurers can provide D&O coverage for a growing number of SPACs. Demand is high and capacity is tight.
Read More
- » COVID-19 has spurred a spike in restructurings, and the impact on business and insurance might not be fully felt or understood for a while yet.
Read More
- » The pandemic has led to new employment expectations and regulations, and that's leading to heightened EPL exposure.
Read More
- » Catch up on current EPL trends with this 23-minute podcast.
Read More
- » Hackers backed by nation-states are targeting hospitals in a new wave of ransomware.
Read More
- » In 2020, more than 2,000 healthcare, education and government organizations fell victim to ransomware attacks in the U.S.
Read More
- » Cyber claims went from 77 in 2016 to 809 in 2019. In 2020, cyber claims continued to rise, and higher premiums could result.
Read More
- » Get the resources and tips you need to thrive during this difficult time. This B-Well Together video series from Marc Benioff and Salesforce provides expert insight on how to improve wellbeing.
Read More